The own property and rent it for immoral purposes

"By immoral purposes," said Mr. Ahrens this morning, "I mean the renting for saloons, gambling houses, brothels or other places of that sort. I offered the resolution as a member of a committee upon civic righteousness. The report was accepted and the question was discussed. In supporting the resolution my stand was taken on the ground that there are sometimes men in the church who fail to take recognition of the cause of civic righteousness. That there are sometimes places against which such men could strike a blow for civic betterment, but they refrain from action for fear they will do something that will reflect upon the character of another member of the church who may be interested in the property where the immoral business is being carried on. I want to have them take a stand one way or the other, as I believe the question is one that has been straddled tong arough. The resolution ong enough. The resolution was as

"This association recommends to all churches of this body to expel any person who has in his or her possession property that they know is being used for immoral purposes.' Rev. George W. Nicholson, pastor of the First Baptist church, did, not vote for nor against the adoption of the resolution. He told a Farmer reporter today that he was too tired to get up, but that he does not believe there was anyone in the convention who would vote "no" on the question.

There was one man in the meeting, a delegate from Stepney, who voted against the resolution, but he explained afterwards that he did not quite ounderstand it.

During the discussion upon the adoption of the resolution Rev. Mr. Nicholson had joined in the debate in an attitude of apparent hostility. In part his remarks were to the effect that the church had never stood higher in the estimation of the masses of the people than it does now and that a more optimistic expression would be better, than that the association should be too pessimistic. He had also said that if there were a man in the church known to drink and given to drunkenness that he would probabso hounded that he would have

There were no re-ligious ceremonies in the capitol buildning, the troops and a band of 100 pieces escorting the corpse to the waiting funeral train which left for St. Peler at 10 o'clock. Simultaneously most of the factories, stores and other business houses in St. Paul closed their doors and the bells of all churches and public institutions be-gan tolling. A number of prominent state officials accompanied the train including the active and honorary pall-bearers. The active pall-bearers were selected from Governor John-son's closest personal friends including Frank A. Day, his private secretary; F. B. Lynch, his political manager; T. D. O'Brien, associate justice of the Supreme court; E. T. Young, formerly attorney general; A. C. Weiss manager of the Duluth Herald and John C. Weiss, of Manasato.
